'RINCE OF WALES AROUSES ANXIETY

unting Field Tumbles of Heir to the Throne Brings Protests from Subjects

y Associated Press.

LONDON, Apr. 25.—From the epths of cockney London as from ie drawing rooms has arisen a dere that the heir to the throne should e the soft pedal when he goes into e hunting field. The long series of mbles from his horses which are edited to His Royal Highness and hich terminated with the narrow cape from serious injury which he perienced when his horse kicked m in the face, has been too much r the tranquility of the English ople.

The newspapers were the first to ke up the matter. They printed colnns impressing upon the people the nger confronting the prince, and atured a long list of hunting and cing accidents which have occurd to him during the last two ars.

As a result of the public feeling us aroused, numerous clubs and soeties have adopted resolutions urgg the prince minister or someie, to impress upon young Windsor at he should not indulge so freely this dangerous sport.

It, is known that persons close to e royal family have often spoken the prince on the subject, and it known that the royal parents cast unsympathetic eye upon these espades of their offspring, but so far ey appear to get only an equally sympathetic response. To the repsentations of his friends the prince ly laughs.

It is thought by many that the preer and his cabinet will step in d gently but firmly inform the ince privately that he cannot take same risks as other men and that ey will frown upon any more such ckless riding.

DAYLIGHT ROBBERY

Bandits Walk Off With Coin Despite Heavy Guard

Associated Press

GRANITE CITY, Ill., April 25.—Bandits in automobiles in broad daylight today held up T. D. Gradinaroff, assistant cashier of the Granite City National bank, seized two sacks containing $63,000 in currency which he was bringing from the postoffice and escaped. The robbery was staged in front of the bank which is across the street from the postoffice. The robbery was perpetrated despite the fact that Louis Fesden, bank cashier, was standing in the bank door and Charles Worster, assistant postmaster, in the door of the postoffice to guard Gradinaroff, who fired several shots at the fleeing bandits who returned the fire. It is believed that one of the bandits was wounded.

PLANS CONTROL OF MINERALS, OIL

Romania Has New Mining Law Being Prepared by the Government

By Associated Press.

BUCHAREST, Apr. 25.—A new mining law of very consederable importance to the foreign oil companies operating in Rumania, is now being prepared by the government, and will shortly be presented for parlimentary radification.

This law is intended to give full legislative power to that part of the new constitution which provides for the "Nationalization of the Sub-Soil," meaning the taking over by the state of all the sub-soil mineral wealth not actually leased or concessioned at the time of the adoption of the new constitution. The state, therefore, now owns title to very extensive areas of proved oil lands, and the new mining law will determine the condition under which these lands can be leased for exploitation, and what production royalties must be paid to the state.

From official announcements it is apparent that under the new law concessions to exploit proved lands will only be granted to companies that are considered as "nationalized," which means that such companies must be controlled by Rumanians, and that Rumanian subpects must own a majority of the stock. Those companies not already "nationalized" can be granted concessions to drill on proved lands only on conditions that they agree to become "nationalized" within a period of five years. This ruling is very important in that it will effect a number of big American, British and French companies which are now controlled, and whose shares are not readily available for purchase by Rumanian subjects.

In the hands of a government hostile to foreign capital, or to the foreign capital of any particular country it is felt that the law as proposed would apprently permit of considerable discrimination being exercised against the operations of companies controlled by such foreign capital.

ROAD PROMOTER TELLS RESULTS OF CENT GAS LEVY

O'Connor and Buckner Continue In Work This Year

$200,000 IS NEEDED

Pro Rata Amount for Each Town in This Section Listed—Promoters Representing Kiwanis Clubs

In order that the citizens of this section may have a clean understanding as to the reason for collecting the one cent a gallon gasoline tax in Middlesboro for the balance of this year for the improvement of the highway from Cincinnati to Florida, C. C. O'Connor of Asheville, N. C., has given the following report to the Middlesboro Kiwanis Club:

The sections of road that are being improved are as follows: Six miles of road in Kenton county from Morning View to the Falmouth pike; three miles in south end of Madison county; seven miles from the North line of Rockcastle county to Roundstone, intersecting the road to Mt. Vernon; Four and one-half miles from the Rockcastle river in the North end of Laurel county; eight miles from London to Corbin in Laurel county; fourteen and one-half miles from Corbin to Barbourville via Woodbine and Welton; nine miles from Morristown, Tenn., to Tazewell. These sections of roads need material improvement.

The approximate amount of money outside of state and county aid that is it necessary to raise in order to complete construction and permanently maintain these roads is $200,000.

Of this sum, the folowing amounts have either been raised or guaranteed from outside sources; Asheville, $20,500; Detroit, $9,200; Cincinnati, $25,000.

Of the voluntary one cent per gallon gasoline tax plan now in effect in Kentucky ,the following amounts are expected to be raised during the remainder of the year: Middlesboro, $1,500; Pineville, $1,200; Barbourville, $750; Corbin, $2,000; London, $500; Mt. Vernon, $300; East Bernstead, $100; Livingston, $100; Berea, $1,200; Richmond, $3,600; Lexington, $21,000; Paris, $1,500; Cynthinia, $3,000; Falmouth, $1,500. Total for outside cities for the balance of the year agreed upon and gasoline plans in Kentucky is $102,850.

Besides these sums about $14,000 has been raised by the Kentucky towns already by the gas plan and public subscription.

Since November 1, large forces of men and teams have been at work when weather permitted. With the state and county money raised the total for the improvement of the bad stretches since last October is over $150,000.

Due to the work done, it is now practicable to drive from Knoxville to Middlesboro via Maynardsville and Tazewell to Corbin via Dishman Springs, Wilton and Woodbine and from Corbin to Lexington. In order to raise the extra $50,000 necessary to put all weak links in Kentucky from Cincinnati to Middlesboro in first class condition and fix up two short gaps on the route south, Mr. O'Connor and Mr. Buckner are to go to Indianapolis, Chicago, Cleveland and other northern points during April and May. As this outside money is procured it will be sent to the banks in Bell county to meet the pay rolls for road work.

In order to get this outside aid, it is necessary to show outside interests that all Kentucky car owners in the territory from Cincinnati to Cumberland Gap are paying their share and this can only be done by the gasoline stations charging this extra cent for gasoline and paying this into the local banks which, in turn, the weekly pay rolls for road work.

It will be of interest to citizens of this section to know that Mr. O'Connor and Mr. Buckner are going north as representatives of the Kiwanis clubs of Middlesboro, Pineville, Barbourville and Corbin as well as Western North Carolina. Both men have had years of practical experience in handling big engineering, publicity and road construction projects, so it will mean much for this section to have such men representing not only Western North Carolina but Southeastern Kentucky for the balance of the year.

CONSOLIDATION COAL INTERESTS IN WESTERN KY.

Began Life as Street Car Driver—Later Owned Saloons and Amassed Great Fortune

By Associated Press

MADISONVILLE, Apr. 25.—The North American Company of New York City announces it has closed option on all properties of the St. Bernard Mining company for $4,000,000. The deal known as the consolidation of the West Kentucky Coal company properties with the St. Bernard Mining company included in deal are thirteen pit and strip plants, 44,000,000 acres of mineral rights, mostly timber land, all commissaries, tenant houses and electric power plant at Earlington which cost nearly $1,000,000. The new company will be known as the West Kentucky Coal company. It is capitalized at fifteen million. It will operate twenty-five mines, ten of them West Kentucky Coal properties with an annual output of 5,000,000 tons. The North American company controls the West Kentucky Coal company which organization is at Sturgis where it operates mines, as well as in Clay and Wheatcroft. Negotiations which have been in progress since January closed here today. There is no change in officers, personnel, policy or name. The St. Bernard company announcement said, that stock control is only change in ownership.

DREDGES DEEPEN GOLDEN GATE

Panama Outfit at Work at San Francisco Harbor Entrance

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Apr. 25.—Night and day, clam or storm, the giant United States dredge Culebra carries on its task of deepening the channel outside the Golden Gate to make a pathway a ship of any size may enter or leave at any time.

The work will require eighteen months. The channel through the Golden Gate will be made 8,000 feet long, 2,000 feet wide and 42 feet deep at low tide. To accomplish this 2,000,000 cubic feet of sand must be moved, a hundredth part as much as was moved to dig the Panama Canal. All this sand must be sucked up from the ocean bed, through the giant lungs of the Culebra, placed on scows, taken out to sea and dumped.

The Culebra was built to assist in digging the Panama Canal and was brought around Cape Horn from the Atlantic to work on the Pacific side. When the canal was completed, the Culebra was the first ship through.

SAMOAN OARSMAN IS TRIBAL CHIEF

Athletic Hawaiian Becomes Head of People in Fathers Stead

By Associated Press.

HILO, Island of Hawaii, Apr. 25.—Faatoia Tufale, until recently a student at the Hilo Boarding School noted in island circles as a boxer and the mainstay of the Hilo crew in the Inter-island regatta for several years, has returned to Samoa, the land of his ancestors, to assume the mantle of high chieftain which his late father bore.

Tufale, the elder, died several weeks ago. Now Tufale, the younger, also known as Faatoia the Strong, reigns in his stead.

Faatoia entered the boarding school in 1916 and soon began to acquire local fame in boxing circles when he started a long series of knockout victories. He rowed on the Hilo crew for four years.

Some time ago he was summoned to Samoa because of his father's illness. Soon after his arrival there the chieftain died. Now Faatoia holds sway over the Manua group of the Samoan islands.

TOURISTS ROUTED VIA MIDDLESBORO

Knoxville Automobile Club Says This Route Most Logical for the Returning Tourists

Denying the statement that it has been informing tourists that the Middlesboro-Knoxville road is impassable, the Knoxville Automobile club has written to the Mercnants' Association that all tourists are being routed this way.

"The Knoxville Automobile club has always favored the Middlesboro route as the most logical and the best route for northbound tourists to travel," the secretary, R. W. Hanlon, writes. "During the months of January and February and March, we routed hundreds of tourists, returning from Florida via Middlesboro and Barbourville, informing them, however, of the construction between Barbourville and Corbin, with the advice that they should ship their cars from Barbourville to either Richmond or Berea.

"About a month ago, we issued a new bulletin, recommending this route as the best route between Knoxville and Cincinnati. A copy of this bulletin is enclosed herewith. Since that time we have not only mailed this bulletin to all automobile clubs and points in the South, but have given copies to every northbound tourist who applied at this club for information."

The writer says he cannot understand the "source of information" that resulted in these protests. According to reports here, tourists coming from Knoxville have claimed that they were advised there to avoid the Middlesboro-Knoxville road. The bulletin enclosed which bears no date in the letter routes tourists by Maynardville, Middlesboro, Barbourville, etc.

News that the Knoxville club is now routing tourists this way is very gratifying to Middlesboro which should soon be feeling the effects of tourist traffic.

Man Killed in Mine Accident at Liberty

Hobert Evans, 27, died Thursday morning from the effects of injuries received in an accident at the mines of the Liberty Coal and Coke company at Straight Creek Wednesday. The remains were taken to Speedwell for interment. The deceased is survived by a wife and three children.

Details of the accident are not known though it is understood that Mr. Evans was crushed by the coal cuitting machine. His limbs were badly mangled. After the accident he was taken to the Wilson hospital at Pineville where he died on the following morning.

CAMPAIGN SEEKS TO CLEAR HIGHWAYS

National Organization Will Preserve Scenic Beauty of Roads

Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 25.—The multitudes of glaring sigbboards which dot the nation's highways from coast to coast are doomed and will be largely done away with, if the campaign of the National Committee for Restriction of Outdoor Advertising is successfully carried out. Its program to preserve the scenic beauty of the country's roadways and to eliminate the unsightly billboards which line every vacant space in the cities, already has been indorsed by 16 national advertisers, according to Mrs. W. L. Lawton, committee chairman.

Efforts to do away with the signs are now being projected by the committee in nine states and eventually it is planned to extend the movement throughout the nation.

The national organization is at present co-operating with 41 civic, social and other bodies, 13 of which are national, including the Federation of Women's Clubs and the Garden Clubs of America.

In a campaign to preserve civic values the support of Chambers of Commerce and Merchants' Associations also has been enlisted. It was pointed out that the committee is not seeking to eliminate the use of outdoor advertising, but to restrict it to commercial locations.

The work of removing these unsightly encroachments along the Lake George highway in the Adirondacks already has been begun by a number of national advertisers, and the Standard Oil companies of New York and California are at present extending it throughout their districts.

Other national advertisers which have indorsed the committee's program are Kirkman & Son, Kelly-Springfield Tire company, Pillsbury Flour Mills company, Washburn Crosby company, Champion Spark Plug company, B. F. Goodrich Rubber company, Sun Oil company, Hood Rubber company, Ajax Rubber company, Ward Baking Powder company, Dodge Brothers, Gulf Refining company, Texas company and Fleischmann company.

LOCAL EDUCATORS AT K. E. A. MEET

Supt. Bradner, Miss Young and Miss Champion at Big Louisville Meet

J. W. Bradner, superintendent of the city schools, and Misses Eddie Young and Lois Champion, teachers, are at Louisville attending the meeting of the Kentucky Educational Association of which Supt. Bradner is an officer.

The meeting opened Wednesday night with an attendance of more than 6,000. Indications were that the number of attendants would exceed 7,000. It is the greatest meeting the organizations has had for fifty-three years.

More than 1,000 of the visitors attended the meeting last night at the First Christian Church at which William Lowe Bryan, president of Indiana University, spoke on "Five Great Humorists," centering his attention on Mark Twain and the power of comedy to accomplish great reforms.

Publishers' Convention Emphatic in Opposition to the Postal Rate Boost

Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 21.—National newspaper advertising has increased 400 per cent in the last 10 years, and totaled 200,000,000 lines in 1923, according to a report today, submitted to the annual convention of the American Newspaper Publishers' association by the Bureau of Advertising. The Bureau of Advertising is an independent organization which works in conjunction with the association.

William Rogers of the Boston Transcript, chairman of the Publishers' Advertising committee, introduced a resolution that " the convention strongly recommends that the 229 members of the A. N. P. A. who do not support the Bureau of Advertising, should do so because the bureau is generally regarded indispensable to the welfare of national newspaper advertising and advertisers."

Samuel E. Thompson, business manager of the Chicago Tribune and vice president of the A. N. P. A., submitted the report of the Postal committee advocating that the association oppose Postmaster General New's plan to increase parcel post and second class postage rates to provide for the proposed $40,000,000 salary increase for postal employes.

Referring to the reception accorded the report, Thomason said, "the attitude of the convention was emphatically expressed in unanimous opposition to loading down second-class postage with this additional burden. The Post-office department never has known and does not know now that it costs to handle second-class mail. We are thoroughly satisfied that second-class postage is the only class which pays its own way."

Mr. Thomason asserted it cost the government less to handle the second-class than third-class mail. Express companies were bidding for second-class mail at one-third the Government charge, he maintained.

Hundreds of Families Are Obliged to Move to City of Lisbon

By Associated Press.

LISBON, Apr. 25.—Lisbon threatens soon to become a city of ruins, unless something can be done to save its collapsing dwellings. For a variety of reasons, including poor foundations, the use of a soft clay, a series of heavy rainstorms and a number of slight earthquakes, houses seem to be falling to pieces, with consequent injury to the inhabitants.

Hundreds of families have been obliged to leave their unstable homes, and some 50 tenements have been declared dangerous. The dwellers have been moved into convents and barracks. The first house went down about two weeks ago, during a heavy rainstorm.

Big Stone Gap Planes at Cincinnati Field

CINCINNATI, Apr. 25.—Two Avro British planes, piloted by R. W. Dusa and John P. Wood, landed at Grisard Field Wednesday, following a flight from Big Stone Gap, Va. After the planes had been refueled and inspected under the direction of Lieutenant Wright Vermilya, the pilots and their mechanics took off for Dayton, Ohio.

Lack of space in the hangars at Grisard Field in which to house the planes prevented their crews from remaining overnight in Cincinnati.

After the planes had left for Dayton Major Edward L. Hoffman, commandant of the field, hopped off for Fifth Corps Area Headquarters at Columbus, in search of additional hangars for Grisard Field. He carried requisitions for three more hangars. Major Hoffman is to return to Cincinnati today.

THE K. E. A. MEET AT LOUISVILLE

Six thousand teachers assemble in Louisville to discuss the most important matter before the modern world. That matter is education.

These teachers are of Kentucky and they wil ldiscuss primarily the educational affairs of the state but the slightest contribution to this subject confined to the narrowest area is of more significance than any other we can imagine.

There is hardly a speaker of writer on modern problems anywhere who does not conclude his argument for whatever proposal he has to offer with the assertion that its validity depends upon the advance of educational practice and knowledge. The American people are sold on education. They believe and it would be impossible to overthrow their belief that their school system is the finest product of American civilization. No one needs to be convinced of the matter's importance. One has only to look at our schools to realize something of its size.

And yet the teachers are never contented with education. They are not satisfied with themselves as teachers, with the attitude of achievement of their students, and with the methods of instruction. That is why they are meeting in Louisville now, to discuss their problems, to seek new light on old questions, to learn what has been going on in the educational world, where much is going on.

This is as it should be. It is an indication of the vitality of our educational institutions and personnel. It is true that there is much to be done, much to be pulled down and built again. We still do not know how to teach, we still do not know how to learn. We have too many illiterates and too many literate dumbbells. We still stuff where we should draw, and when we attempt to draw we frequently find nothing to catch hold of.

Education is not only the most important but the most difficult job in the world today, but so long as these thousands of teachers gather yearly to deal with its difficulties there is hope. We wish we could help them but we can do little. It is their job and we have every confidence in their willingness and ability to do all that can be done for oncoming generations.

THE TARIFF—AMERICAN LABOR

One of the fundamental differences between the Republican and the Democratic parties is their attitude on the tariff.

The Republican party believes in a tariff which not only provides revenues, but which, in addition protects American industry from foreign competition. The Democratic party is a free trade, or tariff for revenue only, party.

A tariff for protection has been known as "the American policy" since the days of Henry Clay. The operation and the results of a tariff for protection fully justify this characterization. With three exceptions, and those of short duration, the United States has had the benefits of a protective tariff since the Republican party came into control of the government over 60 years ago.

During that period has occurred the industrial development of the United States. Since the Civil War, America has become the greatest industrial producing nation in the world.

With the development of her industries and their prosperity came, inevitably, the development of transportation, agriculture and business, for the products of the factories had to be moved, the wage earners had to be fed and the goods produced had to be sold.

It is not an exaggeration to state that America's position as the foremost, most prosperous nation of the world is due, in a very large measure, to the policy and operation of a protective tariff during the last 60 years.

The greatest beneficiary of such a tariff is the wage earner. America has a higher level of wages and a higher standard of living than any other nation in the world. This is made possible by the policy of protection.

The fact that wages are higher today than at any previous time in the history of American industry is mainly due to the Fordney-McCumber tariff. Not only has that tariff provided more revenue than any other American tariff ever enacted. Its operations have refuted every charge made against it during the period of its debate, and have given another example of the wisdom of the policy of Republican protection.

Republican convention is scheduled to last six days, but it is just about over right now.

Abolish Tenure of Office

Bureaucracy is the direct cause of present conditions in Washington. The Congress for many years, beginning with the Civil Service Act of 1883, has delegated its authority to bureaus, commissions, et al., until it has little to do except to investigate the administration or mal-administration of the agencies established by itself.

There are over forty bureaus or commissions in Washington which are each and every one a government unto itself by delegated authority of the Congress.

We must get back to constitutional conditions and the greatest step in this direction would be taken for this we heartily stand) a simple joint resolution of Congress abolishing all tenure of office to each and every person appointed to Federal positions.

OVER the FENCE—

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

IT'S only a fence but the use is immense of the fence that stands out in the yard. For every housewife spends a share of her life swapping sugar and butter and lard.

She'll lean on the fence when there's naught else to do and call to the neighbor next door. The air rings with a merry coo hoo, and the borrowing's started once more.

"Much to my sorrow, I find I must borrow a couple of eggs and some lard. I've started my baking and really, cake making, without these two items is hard."

The neighbor complies and she earnestly tries to indicate gladness to loan. But thoughts that are deep are 'why doesn't she keep these things that she needs, of her own?"

Like old Mother Hubbard, mom goes to the cubbard and finds that it's bare of things; hence the things by the score that should come from the store are the things that come over the fence.

ARTIST EYE-WAITER BUYS PAINTING

Doubles Money of Chicago Art Institute Purchase by "Part Down" Plan

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Apr. 24.—The principles behind the plan of buying your home, bonds, real estate or automobile on installments were extended by a waiter in a restaurant here to cover the purchase of a painting in the Chicago Art Institute.

This waiter had no cultivated gift of sensing high art, but his native eye became delighted at a half-length figure of a young girl painted in the costume worn in the south before the Civil War. It was his first visit to the institute and the picture was one of hundreds on exhibition.

He asked the price and found that it was marked at $175. It was reasonable, but he drew only a small salary. Approaching the sales agent he said: "I like that picture, I would like to own it, but I cannot pay for it now. May I deposit $10 and give you something every week until it is paid for, you to keep the picture until then?" His offer was accepted.

He has since paid for it in full and has been offered twice the amount it originally cost him.

Australia is Free from Cotton Pests

By Associated Press.

MANCHESTER, Eng., Apr. 24.—Queensland's premier, E. C. Theodore, told a meeting of business men here that Queensland had millions of acres of land suitable for cotton production, and that Australia is free from those terrible pests which have made such vast inroads into the prosperity of cotton growing in other countries.

In 1919 there were 72 acres under cotton cultivation in Queensland which yielded 37,000 pounds of seed cotton. This year the acreage was 180,000 and the yield 50,000,000 pounds. In 1922 there were 1,600 growers and in 1921 there were 9,200. Cotton growing, the premier said, was and would become a white man's industry, each man cultivating his 20, 30 or 40 acres.

Urge Improvement Road to Fern Lake

Public-spirited citizens are urging the city to use some of the old slag taken up from the streets on the road to Fern Lake. The worst part of the road is within city limits from Middlesboro to the top of the hill.

It is understood that the city intends to repair the road to the Country Club golf course before the tournament visitors come in June. The commissioner of streets will be urged to use some of the old material on the other road too, as all of the visiting golfers will wish to go to the lake.

The road to the lake is entirely passable in good weather. During rains it becomes so slick on the hills that it is practically impassible. With the coming of spring, the road is being used daily by picnickers, fishermen and others desiring recreation.

The lion has little endurance, his lungs being remarkably weak.

Scorches on cloth may be removed by bleaching in the sunshine.

The only woman tombstone maker in the country is Mrs. Bessie Redman of Seattle.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 7—JACK OF THE BEANSTALK

"Names, please?" asked a footman.

The next place that Mister Muggs took the Twins in Once-Upon-a-Time Land was to see Jack and his mother. No, not Jack and Jill, or Jack Spratt, or Jack the Giant Killer, but Beanstalk Jack.

Oh, yes, of course Beanstalk Jack did kill one giant, but the other Jack killed seven.

Well, the little automobile whizzed along past seven mills and seven hills, and came to a fine city. And asking the policeman where Beanstalk Jack lived, they were told that the first house on the finest street was his, and they would have no trouble in finding it.

Soon they came to the finest street, but it was so full of automobiles all going in one direction that they had to take their place in line and move slowly with the crowd.

They soon discovered the reason for such a crowd. There was a party at Jack's house and the cars were stopping one by one to let the people out.

"We weren't invited, but I'm sure it will be all right," said the little fairyman. "So you Twins go on in while I park the car."

A big fellow in gold braid and buttons opened the door of the magic car and helped them out.

Mister Muggs jumped after them two steps at a time and caught up to them at the door.

"Names, please?" asked a footman in a voice that seemed to come from his toes. At the same time another one stuck out a silver tray for their cards.

"My goodness! I forgot mine. We all did," said the fairyman, patting himself all over as if in search of his card case. "Just say 'Mister Muggs and Nancy and Nick, please'."

So they followed the man to the door of the drawing room and there he stopped, calling loudly, "Mister Muggs, Nancy and Nick."

And then, with his nose sticking up in the air like the spout of a teapot, he marched off, leaving the three visitors in the doorway with everybody staring at them.

Jack saw them at that minute and rushed over. "Hello, people," he cried. "I'm ever so glad to see you. Come on over and meet my mother."

"But we're not dressed for a party," said Nancy. "We look perfectly awful."

"No, you don't," said Jack. "You look just right, the way I like you. I am tired of this fine house and all these servants. Mother and I were both happier before we got all the giants' money and became the richest people in town. We are going back to the country and build a little cottage and keep a cow again. And if you will come and see us there I am sure we will all have a better time."

Jack's mother was as nice as Jack, although Nancy remembered that she had lost her temper when Jack sold the cow for a handful of beans, and threw them out of the window.

They all had a happy time and promised to return.

HUMOR OF ICE CREAM SHAKES ENGLISH HOUSE

John Bull Has Hilarious Attitude Toward Dainty

SEEKS TO AMEND

But the Blue Law Relief Is Lost Amid the Uproarious Laughter of the House

Associated Press

LONDON, April 25.—He is poked by Americans at the British habit of pottering around for tea every afternoon is said compared to the almost hilarious attitude of the British toward ice cream. To most Englishmen there seems to be something screamingly funny about ice cream. The House of Commons has seldom echoed more laughs in a few minutes than it did the other day when a member asked permission to introduce a bill permitting the sale of ice cream after 9:30 at night. Since the war nocturnal purchasing of ice cream has been illegal, unless it was accompanied by a meal.

The laughter broke out first when Harry Becker the member for Richmond, introduced his plea. It rose louder when he said the object was to encourage the development of ice cream and soda fountains in this country. At present he said, ice cream could be sold after 9:30 only if it was part of a meal, and this was a serious infringement on the liberties of the people. More laughter and a few cheers. If ice cream could not be sold after 9:30 the speaker argued, it began to melt and bacteria developed. Uproarious laughter. What would the colonial and foreign visitors to the Empire Exhibition think if they could not order an ice cream after 9:30, or entertain their friends at home with mineral waters, food, buffaw.

Hearty old Tories shook with amusement, back bench Laborites grinned, and the faces of some of the lady members broke out with smiles as Mr. Becker sat down. Then some one added to the general mirth by suggesting a division to let the whole House decide whether the ice cream bill might be presented. It all seemed too funny for words, so no one seconded the motion.

It will be interesting to observe just what the colonial and foreign visitors this summer will think about the way England puts up locked bedsteads, ice cream and chocolate candies and cigarettes and other purchasable commodities soon after sunset each evening. It is illegal to buy any of them after 9 o'clock unless a meal is ordered. Similar restrictions are imposed on beer and stronger beverages after the bars close at 10 or 11.

Most of the night time restrictions on personal habits were imposed during the war. Some patriot conceived the idea that the military forces of the allies would be aided if people gave up buying ice cream, tobacco, soft drinks, bon bons and lollypops at late hours. It was argued that this would release workers for more essential employments. Doubtless it did. And now five years after the armistice, the war time restrictions continue unopposed. They have almost become a tradition.

"Punch" made recently a significant comment on the rising tide of laws. "Mr. Rupert Hughes," it is observed, has described American Laws as the laughing stock of Europe. The trouble is that just when we are getting ready to laugh at United States legislation, we think about some examples of our own."

Kiwanians Treated at Ice Cream Plant

Kiwanians were given a real treat at the Honeycup Ice Cream plant yesterday afternoon when they visited the factory after the luncheon meeting at the Cumberland hotel.

Especially prepared bricks, made in colors and having a large "K" prominently displayed, were served the guests. These refreshments were supplemented by punch of excellent quality.

The visitors were conducted through the plant and the modern machinery and methods of manufacturing ice cream were explained in detail. All were impressed with the cleanliness of the place.

After the visit to the ice cream plant, they went to the K. U. company ice plant and inspected the modern ice-making equipment. This also met with their approval.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Green Vegetables

Don't cook green vegetables too long as it darkens them and makes the flavor too strong.

Keep in Cool Place

Always keep your meat drippings and fats in a cool, dry place.

Keep Dust Away

Keep your beds out of corners or alcoves if possible so they may be kept free from dust. Dust invites vermin.

Washing Solution

Heat a pound of soap in four gallons of water over a slow fire and then add a pound of soda. This will make an excellent solution for soaking clothes and for washing when the water is very hard.

Watch Lights

Watch the lighting in your kitchen and have lights arranged where you need them most. A light that flickers or dazzles produces eyestrain and headache.

Leftovers

Left over parsley or lettuce should be washed and then stored in clean cloths or glass jars without water.

Removing Stains

You can remove stains from indelible pencils by greasing the spot with lard and rubbing well, then washing with soap and warm water.

Peas and Beans

Dried bean and peas should be soaked in cold water for at least eight hours, then rinsed in fresh water and put on to cook in cold. Then they should simmer gently until they are tender.

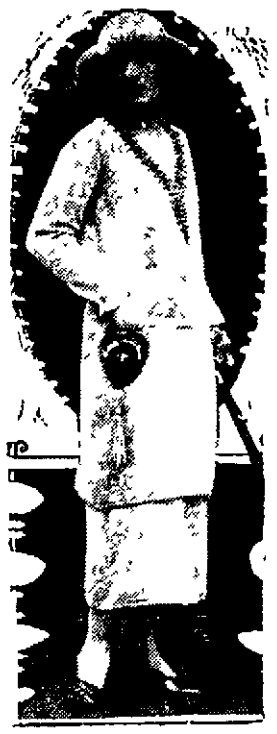
Smart Sport Frocks



This smart sport frock from France is so plain that copying it presents no problem at all. The pockets and neck are embroidered in bright yellow, red and green. The material is gray wool.

Felt Cloche

Despite all innovations in millinery the felt cloche in vivid coloring is still well represented among the elect.

Jersey Dresses

Silk jersey dresses frequently have capes or long or short coats which are worn as a part of the costume.

Trimmed Belts

A leather belt, edged with badger fur is worn with a smart basha frock quite devoid of trimming.

Checks

Checked gingham collar and cuffs tied with narrow ribbons are most attractively demure and recommended for ingenues.

Sport Wear

Homespuns, basket weaves and imported heather cloth are the popular materials for separate wraps and capes that are designed for sport or street wear.

Plaids

Kerchiefs and scarfs of crepe in Scotch plaids designs and colorings are more novel than the printed effects.

Gunmetal

Gunmetal is a shade for hosiery that is particularly liked with the plain pumps of patent leather.

Different Bobs

All bobbed heads are not smoothly plain or elaborately curled. Some are cut to form an uneven line and give a certain shaggy look. This should be adopted, however, only by the exotic type.

Necklaces

Necklace of alternating stones are new and very attractive. Brilliant and sapphires imitation emeralds or any colorful semi-precious stones can be used this way.

Turbans

Turbans are wound very closely and tightly about the heads these days and give the effect of having no crinoline foundation anywhere.

JACK FROST TABLE SALT

It does make a difference what kind of salt you use for seasoning food. JACK FROST SALT is pure and clean. You can depend upon the quality.

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IT

FABLES ON HEALTH

Water, water everywhere, but how much to the baby?

Mr. Mann of Anytown was sorely puzzled about this, as well as many other problems that were really none of his business. Mrs. Mann continuously reminded him of this. But try to give advice to a proud papa!

Few people realize the essential part water plays in life. A considerable portion of a baby's body is water and a mother's milk contains 87 per cent water. In non-water drinkers these statistics should be a lesson that nature demands a liberal water supply.

During the first few days of a baby's life about half an ounce of water should be given about three times a day, but this need not be continued if the baby nurses regularly. Only boiled and cooled water should be given, and a small spoon may be used in administering it. Great care should be taken to give no more.

After the sixth month the child can again be given it in hot summer months it has been found well to give the child liberal amounts chilled, of course, between nursings.

high at any price

Substitutes are generally more expensive in the end than genuine articles. Housewives have learned—they KNOW this is true where bakings are concerned.

Self rising flours are classed as substitutes for plain flour and good baking powder. The use of these special mixtures is very liable to result in false economy, failures and waste on bake day.

Remember there is a big difference, in many ways, between biscuits and other bakings made from these so-called self-rising flours and those made from good plain flour and a dependable leavener. Try the experiment—make a baking from each—convince yourself.

You will find the baking made from flour and baking powder far more attractive in appearance. It will raise higher—retain its full food value and taste better.

For best results, do not fail to use Calumet, the Economy Baking Powder, and a reliable brand of plain flour.

Just think of it—the sale of Calumet is 2½ times as much as that of any other brand. It contains only such ingredients as have been officially approved by the United States Food Authorities. It is pure and sure.

You save when you buy it—you save when you use it.

Simple Two-Stage Amplifier Three-Tube Set Will Stay

The receiving set of the future, say prominent radio engineers, will be a simple three-tube outfit—perhaps single raido and single audio frequency amplification, or just double audio frequency amplification.

Therefore, the fan who plans such a recovery for his own use is certain to enjoy an outfit that will last through the various stages of changes and improvements now being experienced in radio. The ultradyne, the monodyne, the pliodyne and many another "dyne" may come and go, but there can be little doubt about the survival of the simple three-tube receiver.

Therefore, for the beginner, a single-tube receiver is the safest bet. Then, if he wants more distant reception and use of a loud speaker, the next logical step is a two-stage amplifier. It is hardly worth while adding only one step of amplification, because it would still be ineffective for the application of a loud speaker.

Parts Required

Hook-up diagram and layout of a typical two-stage audio amplifier are given here.

Parts for the amplifier cabinet alone are:

Two audio frequency transformers, low ratio, about 4 1-2 to 1.
Two rheostats, 20 ohms each.
Two double circuit jacks.
One single-circuit jack.
Two tube sockets.
Five binding posts.
One electric panel, 7 by 11 inches.
One wood base, 6 by 11 inches.
Bus connecting wire.

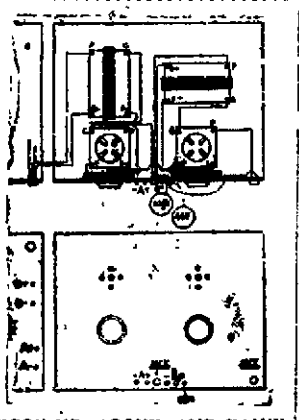
The single-circuit jack may be the one used with the single-tube receiver, if that arrangement has been made.

Detector Changes

Following changes should be made in the detector circuit, for the addition of the amplifier.

Double-circuit jack should be put in place of the single-circuit jack, or the two phone connections.

The two inner connections of the detector jack should be connected to the primary or the first transformer.



HOOK-UP, ABOVE, AND PANEL AND BASE LAYOUTS OF THE TWO-STAGE AMPLIFIER.

One of the outer connections of the detector jack goes to the plate of the detector tube. The other connection goes to the 22 1-2-volt tap of the B battery.

Other connections in the detector circuit remain the same.

Other Connections

A 45-volt B battery is required to take care of the amplifier tubes, both amplifier jacks being connected to the 45-volt positive end. The rheostats and negative F of the transformer secondaries are joined to the negative of the A battery.

The second double-circuit jack is attached between the first and second stages of amplification. The outside connections join with the plate of the first amplifier and the positive 45-vote tap of the B battery. The inside connections go to the P and B—plus binding posts of the second transformer.

Transformers must be placed at right angles to each other.

UV201-A or C301-A vacuum tubes may be used on this amplifier and a 20-ohm rheostate with each.

Tuning is accomplished just as though there were no amplifier to the detector circuit, except for the adjustment of the amplifier tubes to their highest effiecency by means of the rheostats.

This amplifier allows for use of a louder speaker for local broadcasting and DX stations up to 1,000 miles.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF TRACK SCHEDULE

M. H. S. Meets Pineville Tomorrow —Play L. M. I. Ball Team This Afternoon

The high school baseball team was scheduled to meet the L. M. I. second team this afternoon at 3:30. This is the second game of the season. The first game was lost to Ewing by a close score. The boys have been practicing hard since the first game and now are in good condition. Burch will probably start the game this afternoon as pitcher. The remainder of the lineup is: Evans, 1b; Griffith, 2b; Sewell, ss; Lawson, 3b; Callison, rf; Lambert, cf; Jacobs, lf; VanBebar, c.

Tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock the track team meets the Pineville track team on the Pineville field. The team has been practicing hard for several weeks and hopes to carry off first honors in the meet. Middlesboro and Pineville high school athletic teams have not met since last Thanksgiving and the local boys are hoping to partly repay Pineville for the defeat that they received on Thanksgiving. The entries for Middlesboro are: 100-yd. dash, Brown, Chesney; 220-yd. dash, Chesney, Brown; 440-yd. dash, Wallbrecht, Euster, captain; 880-yd run, Euster, Wallbrecht; mile run, Lambert Gloster or Clelland; 220-yd. low hurdles, Wallbrecht; 120 yd. high hurdles, Wallbrecht, Lambert; broad jump, Brown, VanBebar; high jump, Brown, Chesney; pole vault, Faulconer, Stone; shot-put, Mays, Gibson; discus throw, McGiboney, Gibson; javelin throw, Stone, Clelland; half-mile relay, four men to be chosen from the following, Brown, Chesney, VanBebar, Wallbrecht, Kinnaird and Euster. They are also expecting to show up well in the relay.

Title Holder Will Not Compete

CHRISTIANIA, Apr. 25.—The world championship skating match between Arthur Staff, of the United States, and Oscar Mathisen, the Swedish holder of the championship, has been abandoned. After long negotiations between the authorities and between Staff and Mathisen over the prize money, the skaters indulged in a series of newspaper articles attacking each other with the result that Mathisen declared he would not meet the American.

Fat Man Ball Team Is Being Organized

The baseball fever is sweeping the town to such an extent that men of corpulence, usually said to be averse to physical exertions, have decided to try their skill on the diamond.

A "Fat Man's" baseball team is being organized for the city. R. M. Knipp, fire chief, Capt. P. S. Steinhour, Salvation army officer and Jake Bloomfield, store manager, are charter members of the organization. These men are seeking others of like obesity to make up the nine.

The heavy team expects to play a "Lean Man's" team, if such is organized and perhaps also the high school team. Men who are joining the team are experienced and, in spite of their apparent unwieldiness, may give their opponents a stiff game.

Eads at Training Camp

Private First Class Ira L. Eads, son of Mrs. Dora Eads of this city, has rejoined his organization, Company F, 10th United States Infantry after completing a tour of duty with the United States Guard Detachment, 10th Infantry, stationed at the tomb of the late President Harding. The Tenth Infantry which is one of the oldest regiments in the army is at present participating in its annual target practice at Camp Knox, and will remain there through the summer in connection with the training camps to be held at that place.

Doctor Royal S. Copeland Is Boomed For President

BY HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, Apr. 24.—Strange days, these. The times are surely scrambled. Otherwise, could you imagine Democrats—Democrats!—talking about the chances of a Royal candidate for president? And seriously, too!

But they are. They're speaking of the junior United States senator from New York, Royal S. Copeland.

Copeland's rise in the political heavens has been meteoric. Three years ago he was a public unknown.

In medical circles he was recognized as an active and aggressive apostle of sanitation and health campaigns. As commissioner of health in New York City, his name was widely known.

But politics? No one thought of Copeland and politics in the same connection.

Easy Victor

Then came the New York senatorial campaign of 1922. The Democrats wanted a man to supplant Senator Calder, a Republican. They wanted a man who could "clean up."

As health commissioner, Copeland had waged clean-up crusades day and night. He had a good record. So they nominated him for the Senate—a clean man who could clean things up!

And he swept the senate with a majority of 281,216.

In his campaign for the Senate, Copeland demonstrated that he knew things outside the medical text books. He talked tariff, taxation, bonus, international relations and the whole range of political "problems" with the same facility he had shown in preaching better health.

As a "newcomer" in politics, against whom the sins of past political mistakes cannot be raised, he stirs the imagination of his party's leaders. Also, he has "personality." He has a way of "getting across" with the people he meets.

With Copeland as a candidate and a "clean-up" slogan as the campaign cry, the the Democrats might have a really winning combination, it is claimed. Then, too, there is the purely material consideration that Copeland probably could hold New York state, with its electoral votes, securely in the Democratic column. And that is one-sixth the total number needed to elect!

Physically, Copeland fills the eye, as of presidential size. Close to six feet tall, the daily dozen he practices as well as prescribes for others have kept him straight and trim-cular.

A Good Golfer

Heavy brown hair, bushy brown eyebrows above steady hazel eyes, a strong, slightly aquiline nose, a somewhat severe mouth and a firm jaw, combine to rank Copeland as a man whose aggressiveness stops barely this side of pugnacity.

As a physician, Copeland believes in the stimulating effect of brightness and color. Wherefore, to lighten the dearness of the Senate, he always appears on the floor with a vivid red carnation in his lapel. He affects cutaway coats and striped trousers.

In a senatorial golf tournament, Copeland probably would be one of the three or four men with the lowest score. Elkins, Hale and perhaps Gerry might give him a run for his money. His normal score is in the low 90's, but put to it he can turn in a card of from 80 to 84.

Next to golfing, his favorite recreation is autoing. But he wants to be at the wheel, not lolling in the tonneau.

After that, radio is his pet pastime. He not only enjoys listening in, but he contributes his bit by broadcasting health talks from station WRC, Washington.

Copeland was born on a farm near Dexter, Mich., 55 years ago. He graduated from Dexter high school and the University of Michigan, served as an interne at the U. of M. hospital and studied post graduate medicine in Europe.

Has One Son

Back in Ann Arbor, he handled a growing private practice and served as president of the board of education and a member of the Michigan State Tuberculosis Board. For 13 years he taught in the U. of M. medical school, during part of this time serving also as mayor of the city.

In 1908 he went to New York as dean of the Flower Hospital Medical College. After 10 years in this position, he was commandeered in 1918 by Mayor Hylan for the commissionership of health.

Copeland, a Methodist, was for 10 years member of the board of control of the Epworth League and is an active church worker.

When Copeland left Ann Arbor for New York in 1908, he took with him as his bride, Frances Spaulding of his old college town. They have one son, Royal J., who has just achieved long pants.

If the political play at Madison Square Garden next June puts someone else in first place on the Democratic ticket, Copeland will still have active support for second place. That New York electoral vote will give him a tremendous drag. At any event, his home-state boosters will see to it that he is not overlooked in the shuffle.

New York will furnish the Copeland noise whether other states supply the Copeland votes, or not.

Mark Auto Parking Places on Streets

Work of marking the streets in order to better enforce traffic rules continues by the city. Parking places will be marked in the business sections and at all places where a number of cars are parked.

Spaces have been marked in front of the First Baptist church. These lines are drawn at a forty-five degrees angle. It is understood that similar spaces will be marked in other parking centers. On narrow streets possibly, cars will be required to park parallel with the curb.

City Auto License Tags now Available

City automobile license tags for 1924 have been received at the city hall. These will be due and payable May 1, though collections are expected to begin Monday. Payments for city licenses will be received now at the city office should any one wish to pay, according to C. E. Cooke, commissioner of finance.

Seven hundred of the city license tags for automobiles have been received and 200 for the trucks. This is a larger quantity than has heretofore been necessary.

NOTICE

I am going away for five or six weeks to take some special work in medicine and will occupy my present office when I return and take care of my patients.
